Governor Brown appoints Eaton to bench

Mark Eaton, 37, was appointed judge in the Livermore-Pleasanton Municipal Court late Friday by Governor Edmund Brown, Jr.

Eaton, who resides in Livermore with his wife, Joyce, and two sons, got the news at 10 p.m. from Brown's appointments secretary, Tony Klein. The governor and his appointments secretary have been working overtime on a variety of judicial and other governmental appointments.

Eaton told The Times yesterday that he was very happy to receive the appointment. He said that others had more attention in the guessing game about who would get the appointment and he was surprised when the governor's office called.

He will be sworn in soon, but first must finish up his business at the law firm of Miller, Critchfield, Noonan and Eaton, which has offices in Livermore and Pleasanton.

Eaton will serve a six year term. There has been speculation that any appointee would be challenged in the June election, but Eaton said lawyers have called him to assure him that they would not oppose him. He said he will take out papers of intention of candidacy just to meet the technicalities in case someone decided to mount a challenge in June.

Sentiment among local attorneys appears to agree with the statement given to The Times yesterday by David Harris, Sunol resident and valley attorney who was one of the finalists for the judgeship appointment.

Harris naturally was disappointed he was not the successful candidate, but felt that Eaton "is a popular choice among the lawyers." "He'll be a competent judge and a good one. I'll certainly support him. He will be popular with the lawyers. I have written him a letter and pledged him my support and congratulations," said Harris.

Harris and Eaton's law partner, Jack Noonan, were thought to be in high favor with the governor — Harris for his long record of work for the Democratic party and Noonan for his past associations with the governor's family.

Eaton's strength apparently was his high recommendations from both the county and state bar associations, according to information relayed by Assemblyman Floyd Mori.

Mori told The Times: "I think Eaton was an excellent choice. Of those who were still in the running near the deadline, Mark Eaton impressed me most. Personally, I am very pleased with the choice."

Eaton described himself yesterday as a "moderate to liberal" in his philosophy. He is interested in social questions, but as a businessman-attorney he is a fiscal conservative, he said.

One social question which holds his attention is juvenile problems. He plans to get out in the community and become involved in juvenile programs.

Eaton's concern for social questions was seen in 1968 when he helped write the draft for the Livermore Human Relations Commission which was defeated by voters in a referendum that year.

The new judge is a member of A Coordinating Committee to Overcome Racial Division, a trustee of the Alameda County Legal Aid Society, a member of the local and state bar associations and trial lawyer associations, and served as judge pro-tem in the San Leandro-Hayward Municipal Court and the local court.

He has served as volunteer legal advisor for more than 30 non-profit groups including Head Start, CAPE, Project Southwest, Latin Organization for Betterment, Valley Ecology Center, Livermore Civic Chorus, Sister City organization, and Bicen-tennial organization and six churches and four PTA's.

Air quality study asked by official

Alameda County Bureau

BERKELEY — A proposed regional agency computer study of air pollution sources in the Livermore-Amador Valley will take about a year and could cost $50,000 to $100,000.

That word came Wednesday after Alameda County Board of Supervisors Chairman Fred Cooper formally proposed the study to the Association of Bay Area Governments' Environmental Management Task Force.

Cooper's motion to have the task force authorize a study via the Metropolitan Transportation Commission's computer was referred to the task force's Feb. 18 meeting for a vote.

The 50-member task force, an ABAG committee charged with coordinating the federally mandated Air Quality Maintenance Program, met for the second time Wednesday at Berkeley's Clairemont Hotel.

Cooper wants the computer to run simulations to determine "whether population changes in the Livermore-Amador Valley actually affect air pollution in any major way, or whether in fact air pollution generated within the Valley is usually blown to the east and air pollution problems within the Valley are primarily due to pollution blown in from the west."

He said studies in Riverside County in Southern California bear out his contention that pollutants from other areas are the primary problem.

If the pollutants in fact are blown into the valley it makes more sense to plan East Bay population growth around transportation, he said.

Although other studies have been done, the supervisor feels the MTC computer will give definitive results.

An ABAG spokesman later said the computer runs were "highly complex" and could take up to a year to complete. He estimated their cost at $50,000 to $100,000.

Cooper started his campaign earlier this month in a letter to MTC Chairman John C. Beckett and Air Pollution Control District Chairman William Jelavich. He listed a half-dozen assumptions he would like to see programmed into the computer.

Livermore City Manager Bill Parness two weeks later wrote the chairman adding parameters the city wants to see programmed into the computer run.

The Livermore City Council vigorously opposes Harlan Geldermann's proposal to build a 45,000 population community north of the city.

Cooper claims the town would have no appreciable effect on the valley's air quality, while the city charges it would wreck havoc with already polluted air.

Large families find

Rental housing scarce, costly in Livermore

LIVERMORE — An investigation into charges that Livermore families with children are discriminated against in rental housing has led to the conclusions that "difficulty" does exist for large families and "it is a problem of economics."

A report issued by the Social Concerns Committee in response to a letter in September by Billie J. Wilson charging discrimination notes that "(1) there is difficulty in obtaining adequate rental housing for larger families, and (2) that it is a problem of economics."

The committee also found there are few apartments available to larger families and that rental housing is expensive for low-income families.

The report concluded with encouragement to anyone experiencing difficulty in obtaining adequate housing to inform the committee of the problem in order to collate the information.

A survey by the committee of nine local apartments showed that two would not accept children, five have a maximum of two children, and only two would accept more than two children.

Apartment units for larger families are available but limited, the committee found. Rent averages $200 a month and most require a deposit of $100. Others also require last month's rent as well.

"Conversations were held with realtors and lessors of single family dwellings," the report explained. "These owners appear to be most concerned with the tenant's ability to pay and with the upkeep of the property."

"One realtor commented that the demeanor of the children might be observed. Another said that a larger family might be asked for a letter of reference and/or credit."

The report also noted that none of the mobile home parks in Livermore allow children and the monthly waiting list at Leahy Square — where rent is 25 percent of the tenant's adjusted income — has the names of 50 to 60 families.

Although the committee looked into city ordinances prohibiting discrimination against children (Berkeley and San Francisco both have such laws) it thought it "premature" to evaluate their effectiveness since their legality has yet to be tested in the courts.

Committee members also are waiting for statistics from the Alameda County Housing Authority pertaining to Section 8 of the Housing and Community Development Act which is a new subsidized rental program.

The committee's findings will be reviewed at the city council meeting Monday night.

Zone 7 move to valley contemplated

LIVERMORE — A proposal to move the Zone 7 staff from Hayward to the valley will be considered by the Zone 7 Board of Directors at a special meeting Tuesday night.

The board will meet at 8 p.m. in the Del Valle Water Treatment Plant, 601 E. Vallecitos Rd., Livermore.

Director Robert Pearson has been pursuing the proposed move with County Public Works Director Herb Crowle.

Pearson and other members of the administration committee will present two alternatives to the board.

One option is to move the manager and secretary to the valley. This is the less costly alternative.

The other option is to move the entire Water Resources and Conservation division, about 16 people, into the valley.

The water operations staff is already located at the Del Valle Treatment Plant.

The committee has reviewed cost estimates and time schedules for both proposals. The board must decide whether the inefficiencies that would occur by separating some members of the county staff from the other county offices are worth the advantages of making the move.

Murray, VCSD meet set to discuss mutual woes

DUBLIN — Murray School District trustees and Valley Community Service District board members will meet at 7 p.m. Monday at Cronin School, 6901 York Dr., to discuss mutual problems such as recreation programs and sports fields.

The session will precede the regular Murray board session planned for 8 o'clock at Cronin.

Fairgrounds' tennis plan is success

PLEASANTON — The city's previously controversial indoor tennis courts are making money, Recreation Director Robert Caporusso told the park and recreation commission Wednesday.

The commission opposed the recreation department's takeover of the four indoor courts in the county fairgrounds' exhibition hall by a 3-2 vote, but a 3-2 vote of the city council approved the acquisition on a five month test basis.

Caporusso reported Wednesday that there is a projected profit of $710 in January to nearly offset the city's $729 loss from Nov. 28 to Dec. 31, when the courts first opened and many discounts were given to attract users. The city split the early loss with the Alameda County Fair.

Tennis lessons for February are filled to 99 percent of quota and things look good for another profit, said Caporusso. Recreation play in January will draw $3,100, an average of $100 a day, approximately $10 a day more than the projected black ink levels projected earlier by Caporusso.

On another item, commissioners pledged their support to try to get funds next in the next fiscal year for capital improvements at Loma Alta Park. Loma Alta neighbors, led by Spokeswoman Jacquie Oliviera, said they raised $500 for tot lot equipment and will contribute manual labor to install it. City staff will provide supervision for the labor once the project begins. Some $5,000 is needed for equipment.

The commission also agreed to support a request from the Bicentennial committee for the city to be a co-sponsor of the Bicentennial band. The recommendation will go to the city council for action.

The commission postponed the naming of Palomino Park because the homeowners association in the area is polling local residents for their suggestions.

A report on the Spring Outdoor Education Program, second and final reading of a kindergarten policy (with reference to age of entrance), a 75-76 summer school report and the order for the March 2 bond and school board election will occupy trustees Monday.

At present, the district is planning for the transportation of approximately two dozen classes for the Outdoor Education Program.

The current schedule calls for classes from Donlon, Lydiksen, Nielsen and Murray to attend camp at Alliance Redwoods in the Camp Meeker area April 26-30, classes from Donlon, Lydiksen, Frederik-sen and Fallon on April 19-23, the same schools plus one from Dublin May 3-7 and seven classes from various district schools May 10-14.

Junior high classes from Wells, Donlon, Nielsen and Dublin will attend camp May 17-21.

The kindergarten policy up for adoption says that a child shall be admitted to kindergarten if he is four years and nine months of age on or before Sept. 1 of the year of enrollment. The date of birth must be on or before Dec. 2.

A child attaining the age of five years at any time during the remainder of the current school year will not be admitted to kindergarten.

Trustees are also expected to accept a donation from the Donlon School Parent - Faculty Club in the amount of $680 for the purchase of instructional materials for the school.

Parents praise VMH for healthy twins

Adding twins to a family of four children would have been enough of a shock for Barbara and Bill Moakley of Pleasanton. But when their babies were born two months premature, their first concern was "will they make it?"

Thanks to new equipment and special training programs, Kate and Steven are now healthy seven-month-olds.

The twins were born last July at Valley Memorial Hospital. Steven weighed only two pounds, six ounces and Kate weighed three pounds, eight ounces.

Steven received immediate care at VMH before being transferred to a special intensive care nursery at Children's Hospital Medical Center, Oakland.

Kate received special care at VMH, now approved to provide continuing care to infants less seriously ill, thus eliminating the need to transfer the child out of the valley.

For more information before and during birth, a fetal monitor records the mother's contractions and gives out continuous fetal heart rate tracings.

After birth, a digital heart rate and respiration monitor displays the baby's heart and respiration rate with high and low alarms.

In the new critical care unit, the baby is no longer separated from the world by a plastic box with armholes for the doctors and nurses to work through.

The new unit has no barriers, and parents are encouraged to touch and care for the child directly.

Steven was a VMH for two weeks, and then sent to Children's for four more. Kate was at VMH for four weeks.

"Whenever we wanted to we went to see the babies," said Barbara. "We'd scrub up, put on our gowns, take the baby out of the isolette, and feed them. There was a rocking chair nearby, and we handled the babies just as if they were at home."

Nurses in the maternity unit at VMH have begun their second year of neonatology training, designed to teach the staff the latest developments in the care of distressed infants.

"Thanks to the wonderful care the children received," said Barbara, "the only problem I had was converting their weight reports from grams to pounds."

Pleasanton crash

Foothill coed killed

PLEASANTON — A car carrying four Foothill High School students to class went out of control and crashed into a telephone pole on Bernal Avenue early Friday, killing a 16-year-old girl and injuring three other persons including the girl's older brother.

Dawn Martelli, 16, of 3472 Blake-more Ct. in Pleasanton was pronounced dead at Valley Memorial Hospital at 9:35 a.m., after doctors worked nearly an hour trying to save her. Dawn's brother and the driver of the car, Anthony Michael Martelli III, 17, was reported in serious condition with multiple injuries at St. Rose Hospital in Hayward.

Rodger Wescott, 16, of 6175 Everglades Ct. was reported in fair condition at Valley Memorial Hospital. He sustained multiple fractures in the accident.

Nancy Freeny, 16, of 4464 Seminole Way remained in critical condition at Valley Memorial. She is being treated for severe head injuries in the intensive care unit.

While being loaded onto a stretcher, Anthony told California Highway Patrol officers he was driving west-bound on Bernal about 7:45 a.m. on the way to classes at Foothill High. He said the car's rear end began to slide while taking the turn about one-third of a mile east of Interstate 680, went out of control and crashed into a telephone pole.

Pleasanton police first arrived at the accident scene after a call from a passing motorist. CHP units were called and worked feverishly trying to free Dawn and Anthony from the car.

Power cutting tools were rushed in to cut away the jagged metal trapping the victims. Dawn was free 30 minutes later and flown by CHP helicopter to Valley Memorial.

Anthony was trapped in the car for nearly an hour while rescue units attempted to free him. He too was airlifted by helicopter to St. Rose for surgery.

No funeral plans for Dawn Martelli had been arranged as of press time Friday, a coroner's department spokesman said.

This was the fatal crash scene Friday on Bernal Avenue, Pleasanton, just east of Interstate 680.

Chinese New Years

Saturday marked the beginning of Chinese New Year, 4674 on the lunar calendar. Amy Gee of Bazaar Canton in Livermore prepares to wish everyone Gung Hay Fat Choy, the Chinese greeting for Happy New Year. This is the Year of the Dragon, a special year for the Chinese because it symbolizes strength, peace, and prosperity. The two-week celebration is marked by special foods, floral decorations, exchange of lucky money envelopes, visits with family and friends, and, of course, fireworks.

Livermore offers plots to potential garden buffs

LIVERMORE — Green-thumbs and greenhorns alike can apply to tend the Community Garden plots sponsored by the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District (LARP).

The garden will be ready for planting March 1 and applications for the 15 by 20-foot plots now are being taken at the LARP offices at 71 Trevarno Road. Prospective vegetable growers should fill out a form and at a sign-up time they may choose their plot in the area which borders Olivina Avenue west of Murrieta Boulevard (reached by following Turnstone Drive to its east end).

Each plot will be rented for $10 per year to cover water expenses. There will be a water connection in the center of every four plots and each renter will have a key to the water connection.

The garden will be surrounded by a cyclone fence and a layer of topsoil to enrich the ground will be in place within the next few days.

Users must supply their own hoses and tools and organic gardeners will be separated from those who wish to use herbicides. LARP also will allow dwarf fruit trees to be grown and all kinds of vegetables.

Brochures as well as sign-up forms are available from LARP.

Irene Vincent to run for Murphy board seat

FREMONT — Irene Vincent has made it official. She will run for District One Alameda County Supervisor.

Vincent took out "petition in lieu of filing fee" papers from the County Registrar.

Known principally for her efforts to clean up water in the Fremont area, Vincent said she will stick close to that issue in her campaign.

She plans to campaign in the valley, but said Fremont is the key to winning. "I don't see any competition in Fremont," said Vincent. "Name recognition is important, and I'm well known here."

Vincent joins incumbent John D. Murphy of Pleasanton and Valerie Raymond of Livermore in seeking the post.

Bill proposes new state controls on land

A bill which potentially could raise a lot of hove with the growing conflict between open space devotees and pro-development forces cleared the Assembly floor last week on a 41-36 vote.

The bill, AB 15, was authored by Assemblyman Charles Warren of Los Angeles. It would set up a state agricultural council that would pass on proposed large developments planned for prime agricultural areas.

It is one more step in the growing shift of land use power from local agencies to the state. Its possible effects on the valley range from no likely effect within the Pleasanton and Livermore city limits to some limited effects on areas of the valley.

The bill in its present form says that land which is zoned for agricultural use or is actually being used for agricultural purposes must be placed on a map which will be one of the chief instruments of the act.

Land mapped under requirements of the bill would then be subject to provisions of the bill. The mapping is expected to occur next summer shortly after passage of the bill, assuming it passes in this legislative session.

The bill exempts cities from the mapping if they have less than 1600 acres of agricultural land within their city limits. This exempts Livermore, which has claimed it has less than 50 acres of prime agricultural land within its city limits, said Walt McKallum, consultant to the Assembly's Committee on Resources, Land Use and Energy.

Pleasanton has not told the Assembly how much agricultural land it has in the city limits. Assistant Planner Brian Swift told The Times the amount is less than 1600 acres. If the bill changed the bill's provisions so that the entire planning area were included, Pleasanton could have more than the 1600 acre minimum, said Swift.

The Alameda County Planning Department is keeping the county administrator's office informed of the progress of the bill, said a spokesperson. "We are in the process of preparing the map which will show the prime lands. We want to pull together the best information we have and show the impact it has on county land use policies," said the spokesperson.

The biggest question the spokesperson had about the bill is its impact on the expansion of cities.

At least 90 percent of the state's cities have less than 1600 acres of prime agricultural land and wouldn't have to worry about the bill interfering with development within their city limits, said McKallum. The impact on new towns and expansion of existing cities is something else.

If a developer proposed a new town, he or she would go for building permission directly to the state council created by the act. If the builder could prove that the environmental impact of building a new town had a better net effect than the destruction of the prime agricul-

Busch Road-Valley Avenue

One access serves industry

PLEASANTON — The city's only heavy industry area has one access road and it will take a lot of years and a lot of money before more access opens up.

That was the prognosis last week from city officials about the current access situation on Busch Road and Valley Avenue, an area visited by few city residents, but an important and growing part of the city's tax base.

The area is served by only one road, the extension of Valley Avenue east of Santa Rita Road. The road forks into two branches at a Southern Pacific Railroad spur. One branch goes due east and becomes Busch Road. The other curves right and is considered the Valley Avenue extension.

Ideally the Valley Avenue extension should keep on going to Stanley Boulevard, but it stops short. Prior to last June, it did punch its way through to Stanley, though it was a private driveway, not a public road. Anyone using the shortcut was guilty of trespassing on Kaiser property.

Kaiser quit paying insurance on the private road, required because of three S.P. tracks crossing the land. The "road" was closed in June.

The city could acquire the land and punch through Valley Avenue, giving much better access to the local industries, but that day is far in the future, according to Assistant City Manager Alan Campbell.

"We have a half-built city, especially the transportation network. It should be completed, even if we add no more population. But there is no money to do it," said Campbell.

Land purchase and road construction are only part of the cost, said Campbell. The major part would be the construction of grade separations at the railroad crossings. The state Public Utilities Commission takes a dim view of building signal gates on busy streets these days.

The other possible new access is to connect Busch Road to El Charro Road. But that would mean going through Kaiser land not far from its buildings and the related activity around them.

The best anyone has been able to do in that regard has been Pleasanton Garbage Service. The firm will open a garbage transfer station soon on Busch Road in a few weeks on Busch Road next to the Kaiser operation.

The garbage service was asked by the city council to work out an agreement with Kaiser to allow two big garbage trucks daily down the Kaiser Road to El Charro Road. The trucks are much larger than the neighborhood pickup dumpsters and would make their trips to the Livermore dump.

Bill Hirst, attorney for the garbage service, said use of the road hinges on approval from Kaiser, but it has not been granted.

Another firm near Kaiser would love to have a connection to El Charro

Road, but the firm, Pleasanton Ready Mix, is a Kaiser competitor and owner Dale Turner is skeptical he would ever get permission to use the Kaiser Road. (This is not the Dale Turner who sits on the Livermore City Council and his business partner, Don Miller, is not on the Livermore council, either.)

The only other access point to El Charro Road would be via Stanley Boulevard, but would not help the industrial park businesses much unless the Valley Avenue extension were completed to Stanley Boulevard.

Even if there were relatively fast action on the Valley Avenue extension by the city, the El Charro Road situation has been extremely slow. Alameda County officials promised in 1966 to punch the road through from I-580 to Stanley Boulevard. So far the only progress has been public dedication of the first 1600 feet of the road south of I-580.

The rest of the black-topped road runs into Kaiser and Rhodes-Jamieson property. Lack of money then and now is cited by county officials as the reason for the inaction.

Councilman William Herlihy told The Times yesterday that he sees no ray of hope on the El Charro Road situation. The county could have bought property and done roadwork on a piecemeal basis, year by year, said Herlihy. But that was never done and "one questions their intentions," he said.

One city resident who would like to see truck traffic routed over Kaiser land and up El Charro Road is John Fraga, who lives next to Valley Avenue extension in Amador Estates. He led neighbors in opposition to the garbage transfer station's location on the grounds it would bring even more truck traffic past their homes. They lost by a 4-1 city council vote a year ago.

"The city is paying no attention to Valley Road," said Fraga.

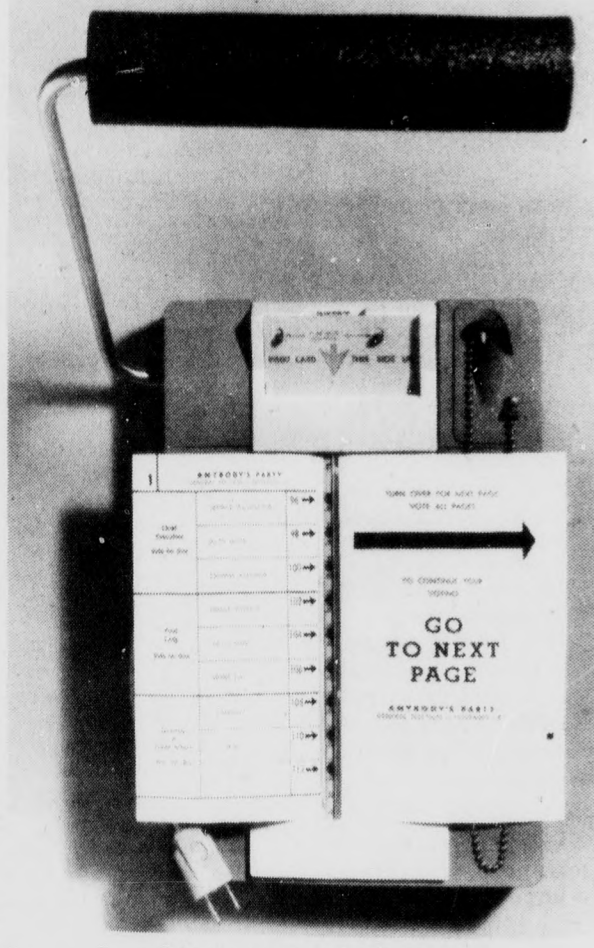

Patriotic presentation

Dublin's Bluebird Group Three from the Nielen School set the tone for the Bicentennial Year with their presentation of the flag to the Dublin Chamber of Commerce. Chamber president Tim Baldwin and Maid of Dublin Louise Hodges accepted the flag. It now flies at the chamber's Amador Valley Boulevard offices.

Votomatic devices will tally election

Votomatic vote recorders (shown below) will be used in Livermore for the March 2 municipal elections. Voters will be given an IBM-type punch card which is inserted into the votomatic device while a "book" of ballot pages is attached to the device. At the center of the book is a slot through which one row of numbered spaces on each punch card is exposed, corresponding to numbers opposite candidates' names or yes and no choices on ballot measures. A small stylus is provided with which voters punch a hole in the card wherever they want to record their vote. After voting, the punch card is pulled out of the device and can be checked by matching the numbers on the ballot book against the numbered holes punched on the card. The card then is inserted into a "secrecy" envelope and write-in votes can be entered on the inside flap of the envelope. Votomatics are on display at City Hall and can be checked out for group use. The new devices also will be at the Livermore Library, Chamber of Commerce and various banks throughout the town by mid-February.

Livermore Municipal Airport shows increase in activities

LIVERMORE — A total of 172,841 operations (take-offs and landings) were conducted at the Livermore Municipal Airport during 1975, an end-of-the-year airport activity report shows.

$2 per month local area.
$4 per month outside local area.

That figure was up from the 170,696 operations conducted at the airport during 1974.

The activity report also records 369 cars rented during 1975 at the airport, compared to 349 during 1974. It also notes that Cal Air Commuter, with flights between Livermore and San Francisco, conducted 72 flights since it began operating Nov. 3 of last year.

The airport activity report will be reviewed at the regular monthly meeting of the airport advisory committee to be held Tuesday (rather than the usual Monday) at the Tailwinds Restaurant near the Las Positas Golf Course and airport complex. Members will meet at noon.

Also scheduled on the meeting's agenda are presentation of status reports on airport striping and landing aids, new T-Hangars, and acquisition of land for the west clear zone.

Members also are slated to discuss communication between the committee and the Standard Oil Company on anticipated availability of 80-octane fuel.

General Plan hearing set

LIVERMORE — The city council will hold its second public hearing on the new General Plan at its meeting Monday night. The hearing is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Municipal Court Building, 39 S. Livermore Ave.

For crops, there is an income standard of $200 or more per acre of unprocessed crops. McKallum guessed that local wineries would fit into that definition, but many local ranches would not.

Livermore vintner Karl Wente told The Times that he is concerned the new bill could replace the Williamson Act. "I'm not sure but what we could be thrown open to having the assessor say that we are eligible for subdivision assessments again. We want to stay in agricultural; we don't want to subdivide."

The bill has support from the City of San Jose and various conservation groups. The League of California Cities is concerned about its possible impact on the expansion of cities. The powerful Irvine Ranch in southern California, with both ranchlands and subdivision holdings, has adopted a neutral position on the bill which many observers see as an endorsement because of the political muscle the firm could bring against it.

Ranch and farming interests are looking at it closely for the tax impacts on their lands, said McKallum. The Office of Finance and Planning said there would be some tax shifts, but the net effect on the state treasury would not change, said McKallum.

Pert Tammy Rankin looks every bit the 'Cinderella Miniature Miss,' her latest title. This talented sprite has won a beauty contest for each one of her four years. Livermore's future new Mouseketeer?

Pert, unspoiled queen

Beauty wows 'em all

By REINA WHITNEY
"Thank heavens for little girls, they grow up in the most delightful way. Those pretty eyes so helpless and appealing; someday will flash and send you crashing to the ceiling."

When Lerner and Loewe wrote these memorable words they must have had a Tammy Rankin in mind. Dimpled, petite Tammy, at four years old is already a beauty queen — veteran of four beauty contests from which she has come away top winner.

Daughter of dark-haired Dennis and pert blond Patty Rankin of Livermore, she has inherited the complimentary coloring of both her parents. Lifting brown eyes highlight her straw-blond hair.

Her parents always felt their little girl was extra-special, but her first contest entry was actually submitted by someone from Kinder-Foto, who sent her picture into an Alameda County contest that drew 400 entries. The first notification the Rankins had was a letter telling them of the entry and advising them to appear at the Oakland Coliseum for the finals. Tammy, a ten-month-old baby in diapers, came away with a trophy declaring her "Alameda County Beauty Princess." The queen chosen that day was six years old.

Her mother, stimulated by the thrill of her daughter's triumph, saw an ad for yet another photo contest in a local paper. This contest was judged by pictures only and drew some 50 entries throughout the Newark area. Tammy, just 26 months old at the time, took home her second trophy announcing her as "Little Miss Newark Princess."

Just three months later, during December of 1973 while the family was Christmas shopping at the "Hub" in Fremont, a stranger, struck by Tammy's fetching appearance, encouraged her parents to enter her into the "Little Miss Christmas Angel" contest sponsored by local merchants. They admit they did hesitate when they found out the contest required an entry fee, but finally decided to let her try. Although only 29 months old at the time, her early ability to talk allowed her to be interviewed by the judges and the mayor of Fremont, after her picture had been chosen as one of the five finalists from 200 entries. As top winner of this contest she was awarded many gift certificates in addition to still another trophy. These came in handy to her young father, at the time working as a fish and game warden.

By this time, a veteran of beauty contests, her mother had no hesitation in re-submitting her photo again for the "Little Miss Newark" title, from which five finalists were chosen from pictures. At three years old she won the top prize and this time was gifted with a trophy, a crown and a robe.

Since moving to Livermore, her mother Patty, has enrolled her precocious child in the Carol Jean Studios where she takes tap, ballet, jazz and acrobatics. Because of the attention drawn to her by the contests and her obvious beauty, she has been solicited for modeling and is enrolled with "The House of Charm" modeling agency in San Francisco and the Brebner Television Agency. She was selected to participate in a segment of the current Sunset Design Magazine.

Most recently our local "beauty queen" was crowned "Cinderella Tot" for girls three to six in a contest held during Vacaville's Gold Rush Days. Another local girl, Deena Kendrick, age 9, from Livermore, was crowned "Cinderella Miniature Miss."

The winners of this contest which included girls up to age 17, who were judged on talent, interviews and runway modeling, will compete at the California State Cinderella Girl pageant in San Mateo next June 27 - July 3 at the Royal Coach Motor Hotel. The state winners will receive $500 college scholarships, is all expenses paid to The International Cinderella Girls Finals to be held at The Dallas Apparel Mart in Texas, July 25-31.

Although the Vacaville contest required a $20 entry fee, Tammy won back a $25 savings bond and if she wins in the finals, it could mean $500 in prize money. All this, plus anything received from modeling fees, is being put into a savings account by her parents for her future education.

The warm, loveable Tammy is so far totally unaffected by all this public exposure. She very obviously loves people. Her mother says her quick, friendly and sincere smile ingratiated her to many judges while other children were crying because of a fear of the crowds.

Tammy's mother was head cheerleader at Chabot College when she met her student body president husband, Dennis went on to California State University at Hayward to complete his studies in science and is now supervisor of inspection for Lox Corporation in Livermore. Both of them agree that their very special little girl will only pursue her extra activities as long as it doesn't interfere with her normal development and as long as she enjoys doing it.

Her normalcy was quite apparent when she wanted to be photographed wearing her Mickey Mouse hat and holding her new "Baby Thataway." When her charming dimple was mentioned, she said, "Daddy took off my other dimple." After quizzing her a bit, it became obvious that she didn't even know what a dimple was.

Her saucy little dress said, "I love parades" across the front. She wanted to show off how the skirt opened to reveal animals underneath.

"Thank heavens for little girls."

These 'Street Cleaners' don't carry brooms Here come the hot rodders!

Wednesday night street scene: Brian (Bennie) Rakestraw's Nova is admired by friends Bruce (Dutch) Takens, Rick (Kinky) Carlton, Dale (Worm) Morris

Gleaming tunnel rams distinguish hood of Bruce Takens' '65 Chevelle

If you think hot rodding died out with the Fifties — talk to Pleasanton's Street Cleaners.

Or the Iguana Farmers in Livermore, or the Valley Rods of Dublin - San Ramon.

Car clubs, with members mostly in their late teens and early 20's, are thriving in the Valley.

As anyone can tell who's been downtown Pleasanton on a Wednesday night, or wandered into Livermore's First Street cruising scene on a Saturday.

Members of Pleasanton's Street Cleaners, a year-old club, have mostly Chevys: vice president Rich "Hopsing" Nogata's '67 Chevelle, Jerry Seymour's white Camaro, Brian Rakestraw's '62 Nova.

Club president Bruce Takens explains the procedure for becoming a hot rod owner: "The best way is to buy your car off a little old lady."

"You put it your garage, pull out the engine and build it up. That means put in bigger pistons and that."

"Working on it every night, you can finish the engine in three weeks or a month. Then, the body work — that takes longer. With a fiberglass kit, you can do flared fender wells, for instance."

"And of course, a paint job." His own '65 Chevelle sports yellow paint and green flames.

It took Kevin Clay a staggering three years to get his '63 Corvette into dragstrip condition with completely rebuilt front and rear ends.

Drag racing is the name of the hot rodding game, and the official place to do it is the Fremont Raceway. The unofficial place is anywhere the road is clear. "We get a lot of tickets," Takens says ruefully.

He has entered his car in the Autorama in Sacramento, Feb. 4-8, hoping to qualify for the grand national auto show. Cars are judged on design, cleanliness and power. The Street Cleaners meet the first and third Wednesdays of every month at the Takens home on Foothill Road (club tel. 846-0279).

On Wednesdays after 9 p.m. some of them can usually be found downtown Pleasanton. On Sundays, they enjoy making "runs" to a park with friends to picnic and play ball.

Their big spring event will be a "Poker run" on June 5 — a rally where contestants will follow a trail of lime markings in the road to claim a prize at the end of the course.

Citizens' band radio waves on

The enormous boom in sales and operation of citizens band radio transceiving equipment has caused some consternation among a small proportion of the valley's television audience who occasionally receive unwanted interference over their sets.

But a check with local electronics technicians reveals that most interference problems cannot be laid solely at the feet of CBers.

"In nine out of ten cases, CBers are not at fault," said Radio Shack Manager Fred Mahler. "Some TV manufacturers are just not putting interference filters into certain models."

Installation of interference filters is governed only by the policy of each manufacturer and not by law, Mahler points out. It's usually the cheaper models that receive interference because of the lack of certain filters, he adds.

Interference is caused by "audio rectification," a process whereby the television set intercepts a stray CB or ham operator's signal and amplifies it to the same level as the TV signal. It only occurs on VHF (channels 2-13) and usually on channels 2 and 5.

The resultant snow ranges from dots across the screen to wavy lines similar to an oscilloscope readout. Shielded antenna wire is of little help since the antenna itself is receiving most of the errant signal.

Mahler said only one or two people had grumbled about audio static, but "50 to 60 had complained of visual interference."

Filters to intercept unwanted signals, identical to those currently being installed on most top-of-the-line televisions, can be implanted into older sets for "about $30," said Frank Lozano of Frank's TV in Pleasanton.

In addition, Radio Shack offers a "CB 2-way Radio Interference Trap" which is designed to intercept the unwanted signal from the antenna lead before it reaches the set. The device is easily installed with a screwdriver in about 30 seconds to any TV.

"As far as I know, it's the most effective way of eliminating CB interference without having expensive installation of filter," store manager Mahler said. The gadget is catalog no. 15-1145 and retails for $2.95.

If unwanted signals are still being received, complaints can be forwarded to the Federal Communications Commission Monitoring Station at 3320 Lorraine Street in Livermore. The phone number is 447-3614.

Literature detailing the cause and prevention of unwanted signals can be obtained from the FCC's Field Operation Bureau in San Francisco.

Two pamphlets, "Interference of Unwanted Radio Signals" and "Audio Devices—Interference of Radio Signals," and a booklet entitled "Swamping Interference" are available free by writing to the FCC Bureau at 355 Battery St. in San Francisco.

The community's first concern

The interest evident in both ends of the Valley in beefing up our "concern for human resources" is a not-unexpected outgrowth of our advance into urban status. We might also expect that those who champion this "social concern" at the community level will borrow from the experience, and the expensive mistakes, of our big city brethren.

The lesson of New York's fiscal collapse is not so far removed that we can ignore the litany of welfare abuses, of politicians inclined to meet pressure groups with generous outlay of cash, and of programs founded by federal largess, only to wind up as an impossible burden on the local taxpayer.

We do not suggest that this same pattern is inevitable in a city such as Livermore or Pleasanton. We do believe however that it would be the worst kind of irresponsibility to ignore the lessons of those larger cities... nearly all of which are in deep financial trouble today.

One facet of the current wave of emotion for "meeting our own social problems" is that which would seek out federal seed money to provide fulltime staff for that local commission. This is a pursuit getting particular attention in City of Pleasanton this week.

"Would you have the courage to close down that program and fire that staff if in two years the federal funding ran out, and you couldn't justify that local expenditure?" we asked one council candidate. "Oh yes," was the firm reply, "we would simply have to tell the people the program was no longer feasible." We wonder.

Pleasanton's vice mayor saw another dimension to "community social services" when he suggested that the challenge is valley-wide, or else it is nothing. William Herlihy went on to propose that such an undertaking embrace all of the Valley's communities, with county and federal funding teamed with local guarantees to give us one program, with one paid professional.

That approach certainly has merit, and it would appear — again as Herlihy suggests — to fall under the purview of the Congress of Valley Agencies.

But the real problem in these bold ventures is to keep a tight rein on the whole thing, and a close eye on the expenses. The farther these programs get from their launching point, the more costly they become, and the more difficult they are to terminate.

New York's plight right now is far more than "social concerns." It is for a great city gone bankrupt, because some earlier social saviors got out of hand.

Hindsight/Foresight

Boards, ballots

The winter-spring of '76 is almost certain to go down in valley annals as one of discontent for area school boards, especially those of the Amador, Pleasanton and Murray school districts.

All will be experiencing collective bargaining for the first time — as will every other district in the state — but the three valley districts also have bond or tax revenue limit increase measures in the hopper.

The Amador and Pleasanton districts have yet to officially declare their intent to place tax revenue limit increase measures on the June ballot. Formal action should come next Tuesday and Wednesday, respectively. Deadline for notifying the county is 120 days before an election date or, in this case, Feb. 9.

The three measures, though on different ballots (Murray's will be voted on March 2), will have a very definite effect on each other. Residents of the overlapping Murray and Amador districts are particularly affected.

Murray is seeking authorization to sell $1 million in bonds in order to complete the seventh-eighth grade school proposed for the Dolan site in Silvergate.

The Amador district, with four schools (Dublin, Valley continuation, Foothill and Amador Valley), is posing a tax revenue limit increase of 75 cents over a period of three years.

Pleasanton, which brings in $9,000 with every tax penny collected, is not in as favorable a position!

Amador gains $19,000 for every cent of tax in the till.

So while board members and administration are gearing for tax and bond elections, and addressing the normal month-to-month problems, they'll also be walking headlong into Sen. Albert Rodda's bumptious new baby, nee SB 160 or collective bargaining.

Sound and Fury

Walt Hecox

Down on Pleasanton's Main Street Frank Penna will sell you an Italian Submarine up to eight feet long for four bucks a foot.

An Italian Submarine is a sandwich, my friends, and at four bucks a foot a bargain by modern standards.

Penna figures four sandwiches to a foot, so 32 folks can eat on an eight foot submarine.

All of which shows just how far the United States of America has traveled along the road to hell, with all due respect to Frank who has brought to the valley something I believe it needed.

Back in the days of yore when I was stumbling over bleeding bodies and bad men in the streets of San Francisco a man spent 35 cents for what we called a Dagwood sandwich.

We walked into Mike's pool hall where the proprietor sold wheat squeezings in coffee cups during the small hours of the morning when such service was illegal if not immoral.

There we downed our booze neatly and covertly between bites of the big, sour dough sandwich Mike piled high with meat, cheese and fat slices of white onion.

I cried large and salty tears the New Years night I walked into the place and ordered a Mike's special.

"On white bread or whole wheat?" the counter-man asked in all seriousness and only a slight lisp. Mike was dead and San Francisco had gone to hell and what was there left to live for?

If Mike's monstrous sandwich was a bargain, think about Marty's place in San Jose where some of the lads on the State College campus developed a taste for beer for the very good reason that a nickel glass of beer would get a fellow a square meal.

Marty kept a sizeable supply of cold cuts, cheese, pickles and rye bread in a fine screened cooler which sat beside the bar.

For the price of a nickel beer we could pile a couple of slices of bread high with baloney, head cheese, salami and pickles and thus ward off starvation.

At those prices we sometimes could even afford a second glass of beer.

Those were strange and beautiful days, my friends.

Summertime we went to work before dawn and left with the last pear truck in the yard.

The sun rose and set, but we never noticed. Sometimes we worked past midnight and reported the same morning at four a.m.

We were too tired to go to Marty's those aching, hot summers.

Come September and things changed. We came early and stood in long lines under the elm trees on Washington Square, paid a total of fifteen bucks in fees and enrolled as students at San Jose State College.

The place is a University now but the elm trees

Letters to The Times

Police and fire

Editor, The Times:

I sincerely hope that I am not alone in my thought when I say that I do not wish police officers attempting to extinguish a fire at my house, nor do I wish Fire Fighters dealing with the legal technicalities of justifiable homicide which delineates when police officers may use deadly force.

The two City of Pleasanton departments which City Manager Bill Edgar wishes to combine into one Department of Public Safety are as diverse in their duties and purposes as are Doctors and Lawyers or Electricians and Plumbers. Merely because police and fire have similarities of being municipal 24 hour emergency services is no reason to assume that their unification into one department can be made.

Personalities of Police Officers and Fire Fighters are notoriously divergent, and it is well documented that the personality of a Police Officer is a critical point in determining whether that man can successfully function as a Police Officer. To place a Fire Fighter into a new, and tenured, position as a Police Officer, never-minding whether his personality is congruent with Police work is a gross error in judgement and management which could ultimately cause a citizen to lose his life in a "shoot — don't shoot" situation.

I hope Mr. Edgar has given thought to how many Fire Fighters he will have to send to a POST (Peace Officers Standards and Training) accredited Police Officers Academy for up to 16 weeks each, and how many Police Officers will have to go to a Fire Academy. Is Mr. Edgar aware of recent Penal Code enactments which require recruit Police Officers (which the Fire Fighters turned Police Officer would be) to immediately attend a POST Academy and then train with competent Field Training Officers (FTO's)?

I hope that the $25,000 to $30,000 saved by not hiring a Fire Chief does not cost anyone his life, let alone one of my children.

Finally Mr. Edgar, labeling fire fighters as union zealots is something I would expect to hear from a less esteemed position than yours.

Craig V. Shuey, Pleasanton

Disappointed

To all City Council Members:

Would you like a lesson in futility? Attend your City Council meeting. Be represented by your City Government!

I attended the City Council meeting Monday evening January 26 as a concerned citizen. I was there because of item 9 on the agenda "Approval of Current Public Safety Organization." Because of extensive research the Fire Department had made regarding this issue, I came, as many other citizens did, totally opposed to this proposal. In the past 13 months of trying the public safety merger, it has already cost the taxpayers $65,000. The Fire Department as it now stands, is grossly understaffed. And we as citizens of this community are grossly underprotected. A proposal made by Bill Barry, President of the Firefighters Union, putting the three appointed Fire Captain "Administrators" back on a 56 hour work week, would not cost the taxpayers a dime and would afford the Fire Department better man power than it now has. You can't win a war with all brass and no infantry. And you can't fight fires in Pleasanton with all Administrators and few fire fighters.

C'mon, kid, Live!

When the eyes flutter open at last, when the breath finally comes easy and regular — only then can the fireman relax. And maybe take a little pride in the fact that he's saved a life. And the gift itself is big, too. Because in many cases it brings people literally back from death.

Whenever you wonder where Red Cross money goes, think of it. Part of your money goes to train people in all walks of life to do what needs to be done when the chips are really down.

Maybe you'll never need to be brought back to life this way.

Then again, maybe you will. Isn't Red Cross a good idea? Belong.

Red Cross. The Good Neighbor.

are gone as are the inner quad, the west quad, the south quad and Morris Daily Auditorium with its ivy covered tower.

It is a university now but I will wager my sweet Post Toasties and throw in a free draft choice it was more fun then when the total student body was 3,000 and a lad could enjoy the free lunch at Marty's place.

The Santa Clara Valley was fun then, its rolling plain covered with apricot, prune and peach trees. The bootleggers were out of business but their memory and legacy lingered on.

Dingo Mendoza, Frank Guernisi, John Locurto and a branch of the Bachigalupe family still found ways to break the law, a task to which they were dedicated.

September weekends we eased the pain of Saturday's football game with wheat squeezings at O'Brien's candy store and soda fountain.

I am not kidding. Not this time. We walked past the long candy counters, through the soda fountain and restaurant and into a little bar in back where drinks cost the outrageous price of 25 cents.

We were rich in September. For two-bits we could purchase exotic drinks like a sloe gin fizz, pink lady, sidecar or Singapore Sling.

We started with the fancy drinks until we heard the Georgia Tech fight song. Then we drank our wheat squeezings clear like the rest of the jolly good fellows.

By December we were not rich any more and back at Marty's. Washing down the free lunch with the juice of hops and holding on until summer and those long days in the pear yard.

Another day, folks, and a different dollar.

Today it is the submarine at four bucks a foot. A bargain with inflated money.

I came away from the Council meeting totally disappointed in the government I helped elect. It was apparent that the decision to merge had been made long before Monday night's Council meeting. Our City Council was representing the City Manager and not the citizens of the community.

I'm only glad about one thing; that elections are coming up and I'll have a chance to elect council members that will represent you and me.

Ms. Martie Vassallo, Pleasanton

Timely help

Editor, The Times:

I would personally like to thank (Mr. McNicoll) for the assistance you gave Mrs. Sandra Smith and myself in our successful endeavor to have the city place a crossing guard at the intersection of Harvest Road and Black Avenue. Your articles in The Times were instrumental in bringing forth the support that we needed to ultimately bring this effort to a victorious end.

I particularly would like to thank you for the article that I requested by phone that you write. I thought you did an excellent job of covering the entire issue, and it gave our effort some valuable publicity.

Constance Roney, Pleasanton

VMH candidate

Editor, The Times:

We wish to commend and thank you for giving front page coverage to the Girls Scout's cookie sale.

Furthermore we have enjoyed your other public service articles, particularly the series on valley classroom teachers. The Times is surely the antithesis of responsive and professional journalism.

Kim White, Richard White, Livermore

Too many cookies

Editor, The Times:

I would like to respond to several letters you have published, and at the same time, state my position with respect to Valley Memorial Hospital. There are several major issues which concern me.

First, expansion of VMH to a second site at present would appear to me to be unwise. Funding for a new facility seems to be lacking at this time, the exact location for best service is unclear and the necessity of VMH alone undertaking this expansion is unproven. I take exception to those who fear the competition of another hospital. VMH should not fear competition but welcome it. Further, the donors of VMH should have been consulted regarding any move of this magnitude before, not after, it was undertaken.

Secondly, with all the acclaim the San Ramon-Dublin Clinic has been getting, and with the expansion hoping to take in this area, why is the Clinic not separated out in the annual report mailed to donors. Nowhere in the report is there mention of how much money the Clinic earned or lost.

Finally, the by-laws and election procedures could use some revision. Every one who wishes to run for election to the board of directors should be required to follow the same procedures. At present board nominated candidates are not required to file petitions or obtain signatures of donors.

Eric P. Wente, Livermore

It all happened the evening I was watching Kojak on the tube. Baldy had just about wrapped up the last of the nogoodniks when the lady of the house advised me of an incoming phone call.

"He sounds very excited," she advised, while I dawdled.

"Drat it," I exclaimed, "why can't they call during the commercial break?" The caller, turned out, was Sam the ambulance man. Sam is often the source of exciting news, usually during the prime time evening hours, or when I'm in the shower.

"Got some terrific news for you," Sam said, excitedly. "A bus that was taking all the candidates for local and county office on a tour of the Valley just went off the ridge. Wiped out every blessed one!"

While acknowledging that this was indeed big news, I could not help but question Sam's apparent enthusiasm over such a dire event. Other than the income potential, of course.

"No, no," Sam explained. "What really has me excited is that I have finally done it... I have taken the best parts from each of those dearly departed and created the BIONIC CANDIDATE!"

Now I knew Sam had a sort of inventive flare, erector sets and that sort of thing. But the idea that he could build one perfect candidate out of the remaining parts of a score of original models was a bit hard to stomach, if you know what I mean. Is a Bionic Candidate really possible?

"You bet your Nielsen Ratings it is," Sam assured me, with enthusiasm. "Not only can it be done, but my composite candidate will be far better than any of its parts. I used only the best of each," he assured me.

He then proceeded to give me, piece by piece, the makeup of the Bionic Candidate.

"I used the mouth of that guy who's always promising the voters 'More services, less taxes and Santa Claus as a fulltime mayor.' I figured no mouth ever said it better," Sam said.

I could not disagree with Sam on his choice of a mouth.

"I used one eye from that candidate who is far-sighted... only sees a better tomorrow, and one eye from the near-sighted candidate, the guy who can only see the debris we left behind. That way, I figure we get the best of both visions," Sam explained. Sounded plausible.

"Took the nose from that well-known public servant who can smell out smog at distances of 50 miles and more. No better nose anywhere," my friend asserted proudly.

The chin, Sam advised me, came from that woman "who was always sticking her chin out at the Board of Supervisors' meetings." It was in bad shape, but still useable, Sam explained.

And the heart? Whose heart did Sam choose for this super civic servant?

"Half from each of the incumbent mayors," Sam explained. "I forgot to add that they were both going along for the ride, and good thing. You can't find a bigger heart anywhere than in each of the incumbent mayors."

The choice of a stomach was also fortuitous.

"Got it from a candidate who used to work for the county assessor's office," Sam reported. "Figured anybody who has the stomach to work for the county assessor has got to be worth preserving."

The knees presented no problem.

"All that knee-jerk politicking gave me plenty of choice there," Sam said. He is sending the extra knees to Ronald Reagan.

"The feet were something of a problem," Sam explained. "I wanted a set that would always send our composite candidate in the right direction, in pursuit of the best cause." After much deliberation, Sam decided to use a set of skateboard wheels he found alongside the bus. "I figured that if our candidate was going to run around like crazy, he might as well get there in style."

So there we have it. The first Bionic Candidate! The perfect community leader for all occasions and every adversity. Except...

"The brain!" I said to Sam, excitedly. "You forgot to give our Bionic Candidate a brain."

"No, I didn't forget," Sam said, sadly. "I hunted around the wreckage of that bus for hours, and I'll be damned if I could find anything that looked like a useable brain. It's the one flaw in the creation of my perfect candidate."

"Don't worry about it Sam," I said, sympathetically. "Anybody who has been tuning in on this year's election races will never know the difference."

Folks have been phoning Pleasanton City Council members, urging them to keep fortune tellers out of town. I told my friend, Plato Callaghan, that maybe the callers were afraid gypsies would steal their children, put hexes on their dogs and keep people awake at night with loud violin music drifting from their campwagon.

"It is the right of every American to live where he or she chooses — at least that's what the builders keep telling the City of Livermore about their growth control ordinance," said Plato.

Well, actually people don't mind gypsies living in town. It's this palm reading stuff. It's downright superstitious. Why a friend of mine looked up a Pleasanton council meeting record from 1966 and learned that many local ministers were out in force complaining about a palm reader who wanted to start a business in town. That was when the city passed an ordinance against it, I told Plato.

"Superstition is a powerful thing. My Protestant friend was kidding me about my rosary just the other day," said Plato. "Of course, 300 years ago, he would have shot me for it. Fortunately we've grown up since then."

Well, you know, even if I could buy that argument that palmistry isn't any more superstitious than a lot of other things, you have to admit that people are gullible, forking over a lot of money just to get some advice about their problems, I said. We should protect people from that.

"I was telling my $40 an hour psychiatrist that just the other day," said Plato. "But I've grown a lot since I started seeing a shrink. You know, there's probably a moral here."

What's that, I asked. "People are selective about growth."

FatRat

meets

his sister

Editor's note: FatRat is a tan-and-white rat who lives on North P Street in Livermore. Further adventures will be published as they occur.

FatRat gave himself one last fast scratch as Rachel pulled his cage out of the car.

He blinked his pink eyes in the San Francisco sunshine, then suddenly remembered to smooth down his fur.

He was going to meet his long-lost sister, Rosenberry! And he wanted to be sure he looked all right.

San Francisco was where FatRat was born two years ago. Actually, it was more than two years ago, but FatRat celebrated his birthday on January 20, the same day as his boy, Kevin. He became part of the family on Kevin's seventh birthday, two years ago.

FatRat stared at the wood-paneled building where Rachel was carrying him in his cage.

Was this where he was born? A big red banner dangled over the window. In yellow letters it said: SYNERGY. That was the name of the school.

It was just a small school, 30 kids and three teachers and about 20 various kinds of animals, FatRat had heard. He hoped none of them were dogs, because he was afraid of dogs.

When they brought him inside, Aunt Kathy said "Hi" and lifted FatRat from his cage. FatRat knew Aunt Kathy. She was a teacher and was always dropping by to see Kevin and Rachel and FatRat and say,

"My, how you've grown!"

But she was a good back-scratcher, and that was important to a small tan-and-white rat with itchy ears.

Aunt Kathy wanted to show FatRat how his old home had changed since he had left. It used to be a diaper-service building. When FatRat left two years ago it was just starting to become a school, with much hammering and paint smells.

Now, there were plants hanging in the windows. Red plaid curtains. A monster mural in the bathroom. Big macramé decorations, a cozy library and best of all, a kitchen with a counter full of crumbs!

Aunt Kathy gave FatRat plenty of time for his breadcrumb break while she found some cookies for Kevin and Rachel.

Then she took him over to an aquarium.

"An aquarium!" FatRat squeaked. "I hope my sister isn't a fish!"

But this aquarium had good-smelling wood shavings on the bottom. There was a big food dish, a water bottle, some lettuce — and a small rat, the same pale brown and white colors as FatRat with the same wiggling whiskered nose.

"Hey," FatRat said to her, "what kind of a place is this? And what kind of a name is Rosenberry?"

"A hip name," Rosenberry said proudly. "The kids gave it to me."

"And this is a farout school. They have massage lessons. Yoga exercises (I do them along with the kids when nobody's watching.)

"They have a giant chess game over there in the corner. They write their own books and take pictures with a pinhole camera and they have a science corner."

"I," she announced, "am part of the science corner."

For a small rat, Rosenberry talked a lot.

"The kids here are really good to me. They feed me natural yogurt and carob beans and organic lettuce, and they take me out of my aquarium a lot."

"And sometimes on Saturday nights, when all the kids are away, THE TEACHERS HAVE BIG LOUD PARTIES HERE."

Well! Kevin and Rachel's mom had parties too, but they weren't very big or very loud and they took place downstairs where FatRat couldn't watch.

Life certainly was interesting for rats at Synergy School.

Rosenberry suggested, "I bet you want to hear what happened to Mom and Pop and all our brothers and sisters."

As a matter of fact, FatRat wanted to taste one of those carob beans. They smelled like the chocolate

OOPS! WE GOOFED!

Well folks, it happens sometimes. Last week we ran the wrong photo, spelled the lady's name wrong, and... Well, here she is, the real true original, one and only Elaine Renard, who has recently joined PRESTIGE REALTY. She lives with her husband, Bob, in Pleasanton Valley, and has four children. Her successful real estate career has been amply aided by her interest in people and interior decorating. She also has a forgiving nature (we hope!)

Licenses overhauled

County fees rise sharply

Alameda County Bureau
OAKLAND — It will cost more to sell secondhand goods, run an auction or drive a cab in Alameda County under an ordinance revision passed last week by the board of supervisors.

Fees for 16 permits and licenses were increased from $2 to $40 in the county's attempt to recover some $13,000 in time and material costs lost each year.

Some of the fees had not been changed in nearly 20 years.

An ordinance charging $10 per year to sell second-hand goods, for instance, has been on the books since July, 1956. It will double.

The $1 yearly charge for owners and operators of taxi cabs jumps to $15. It, too, had been on the books since 1956.

Charges will be leveled on formerly free permits as well.

A parade will now cost $40, a peddler's permit $5, a dance permit $30 and personal fingerprint card $3.

The sheriff's department has been issuing the permits and licenses, and while they estimate the cost at $14,000 per year, revenues totaled $834.

By state law the county is authorized to charge only for the actual costs incurred by the issuing agency.

When the sheriff's request first came before the board, supervisor Tom Bates asked for a comparative study with cities in the area.

According to county administrator Loren Enoch, the fees vary widely. Berkeley, for example, charges more than $100 for an auction permit, he said.

Cities, however, can tax to raise operating revenue for the general fund, whereas counties are held to covering administrative costs.

Only massage parlors escaped unscathed. Their yearly fees of $40 for the establishment, $30 for an inspection and $25 per technician were unchanged because they were established in January, 1973.

The changes, where applicable, became effective retroactive to Jan. 1.

Citizens push tax override

LIVERMORE — In an effort to spark community involvement in the 25-cent tax override measure appearing on the March 2 ballot, a special citizens' committee is being formed with John Shirley nominated as interim chairman.

Shirley's name was suggested by Mayor Archer Futch at the city council meeting Monday night and other council members each chose candidates for the committee. They are Sharon Heinz (nominated by Dale Turner); Judge John "Al" or Ann Lewis (Don Miller); Philomena Medeiros (Helen Tirsell); and Dee Wilson (John Staley). Nominations were chosen from a list of citizens active in the community compiled by City Manager Bill Parness.

The committee members are envisioned as a nucleus only and anyone else interested in serving on the committee should contact City Clerk Dorothy Hock at City Hall, 2250 First St., 447-2100, or council members.

The 25-cent tax override measure (Measure A) will ask voters to approve a special tax which will be used exclusively for the police and fire departments.

PLEASANTON — City council candidates will be featured at the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce meetings Feb. 17 and Feb. 24. Frank DiFilippo will introduce the candidates.

Rutter on bonds

Dawn E. Rutter, candidate for the Murray School District board in the March 2 election, has clarified her position in respect to the bond issue that will be on the same ballot.

"I said 'I am for the bond issue with reservations' at the recent candidates night at Nielsen School. My reservations include dubious full use of present vacant rooms in some schools; the diminishing attendance — Dr. Donald Williams said we are 500 under — the closing of schools in Alameda County (Castro Valley for one) due to insufficient attendance; and lack of skills in reading, spelling and writing of the students we now have," Mrs. Rutter explains.

"We voted a bond issue for a school that is not yet built and people tell me they want to say 'no' to anymore blank check spending. Taxpayers are justifiably in revolt."

"School taxes should be pooled throughout the state and applied to schools equally, on the basis of attendance, not which district a student lives in," Mrs. Rutter contends. "Standardizing teachers salaries throughout the state would insure all children the opportunity to quality education and diminish strife."

The latter subject was discussed briefly at a Murray bond election committee meeting earlier in the month.

"Use of library films for students to play with is a waste of money. The child uses it for a momentary status symbol and it has limited if any educational value. We already have too much film with television in every home," Mrs. Rutter contends, "and children need to learn to READ the books in the library as this skill is the key to the world."

Continues Mrs. Rutter, "I'm interested in not discriminating against girls and that no attempt is made to limit their horizons. All children should have the equal opportunity to pursue their interests and develop their talents and prepare for a working world."

"I'm opposed to waste in text books and we need control of the method of selection for classroom use. Our discarded textbooks, in 1973, saved Thrifthaven Baptist School of Memphis, Tenn., untold amounts of money even after shipping them from here to their school," Mrs. Rutter claims.

"They said they had two tons of books valued at between $8 and $10 thousand dollars, according to their letter of thanks to me. Their student body is stated at 460."

Mrs. Rutter concludes that "people are needed on the school board who care about the money we ask parents to put up and who care about the best education our students can earn for themselves. I am a 28-year continuous PTA member in California schools and cannot diminish my interest as long as I still have a student of my own in school and as long as my tax money goes to support the schools."

Cooper denies story

No BART October shutdown

SAN RAMON — "We don't have any shut down plans for October," BART Board President Elmer Cooper said Wednesday night in denying a page one story in that afternoon's Oakland Tribune.

He was backed up by the district general manager Frank Herringer, who claimed an interview with the reporter was "taken out of context."

The story claims district officials "already are developing a plan to shut down the system by December" if the State does not agree on additional financial support.

Herringer said the reporter asked about "contingency plans" to shut down the three county rail system if State funds are not granted. The general manager said plans were drawn up several years ago and reportedly told the writer "I guess they'd have to be dusted off" if the district planned to shut down.

"We don't plan to shut down," he told a group of east Alameda and Contra Costa County representatives in an informal meeting of officials from the district's hinterlands not served by BART rail.

"There's no alternative but to continue BART in the Bay Area," he added emphatically.

While the board of directors formally has not proposed legislation, they will hear their committee's recommendations at their next meeting.

The district is on record as wanting a permanent continuation of the half-cent sales tax levied in the three BART counties. They estimate $40 million in operating revenues — enough to underwrite operating costs and perhaps to open regular weekend service — from the tax.

No sponsor has been found for any proposed legislation. The sales tax in the past had been proposed by Senate President Pro Tem James Mills, but according to the article the San Diego Democrat feels this time it must come from a Bay Area legislator.

Seniors win Sandia scholarship

LIVERMORE — Jeff Anderson and Richard Ford, two graduating seniors of Livermore High, have won Sandia Laboratories' four-year college scholarships. It was announced yesterday by LHS principal Paul Reginato.

The scholarships will give each youth a fully paid four-year college education.

All tuition, fees, books and a monthly stipend for board, room and personal expenses will be provided. In addition, the boys will be able to work full-time during the summer at Sandia at full pay.

The boys must go to a university or college "within reasonable proximity of Livermore." If either winner should decide to go to a private university such as Stanford, the award could be worth as much as $35,000.

Reginato said, "We feel very fortunate that these two young men were awarded such outstanding scholarships. I understand that only four of these scholarships were given and we're very proud that two of them went to students at Livermore High School."

"Both of these young men are outstanding in the areas of science and math and we expect to see great accomplishments by them in the future."

Bank of America award competition starts here

Local high school and community college students this coming week begin competing for $300,000 in cash awards in Bank of America's two annual scholarship programs.

In all, more than 300,000 graduating seniors and 160,000 second-year college students from throughout the state will participate in the Achievement Awards and Community College Awards

So What's New

Baby boys joined two Valley families recently, according to reports from Kaiser Hospital, Hayward. Barbara and Stanley Ford of 5557 San Antonio St., Pleasanton, had their son Jan. 9.

The arrival date was Jan. 15 for Chuck and Judi Boswell of 527 Lorren Way, Livermore.

Faculty committees in each high school will select top students in each of four general study areas — fine arts, science and mathematics, liberal arts and vocational arts — to compete March 24 in semi-final zone competitions.

Zone winners in Northern California will move on to five regional finals and the chance to win one of 20 first-place awards of $1,000. Second and third-place winners each receive $750 and $500, respectively. All other finalists receive $250 awards.

In the Community College Awards program, faculty committees select top students in business, science — engineering, social science humanities, and technical-vocational. These winners will compete March 23 in area events and those winners — two in each of four categories — move on to the finals in San Francisco. Finalists in each field earn top awards of $2,000 each, with second-place students winning $1,000 and third-place winners $500. All other finalists are awarded $250.

The Achievement Awards program is in its 28th year and the program for community colleges is in its 23rd year. Both programs are designed to recognize and honor students whose scholarship, leadership and sense of civic responsibility give most promise of future success and service to society.

"While scholastic ability is the major factor in the selection of the winners in each program," program coordinator Lee Gomez explains, "participation in school and community activities is also evaluated to reflect the student's total accomplishments."

The Olympic Games — ordeal or ideal?

Certainly the alternatives must be weighed by the folks who organize them, who construct the stadia for them, and who compete in them.

Is an Olympiad the epitome of the competitive spirit, or the ultimate manifestation of overblown amateurism?

For inn keepers, restaurateurs and ticket scalpers it is an ideal tribute to commercialism. For governments and taxpayers it is a nightmare of escalating costs, impending deadlines and often civil unrest.

For athletes it can be a precious moment to climax months of worthwhile training, and at the same time, a bitter lesson in the back room wheeling and dealing of international sport.

The Olympics represent ideal and ordeal for them, physical and spiritual release through the ultimate contest, but also emotional and psychological trauma. Are the risks worth the rewards? Do the competitors even ask that question before dedicating themselves to The Games?

No, says Diane Dunbar, one of America's Olympic gymnastic hopefuls. For her there was never that moment when she balanced the debits and credits and said, "yes, The Games are worth the agony."

Except maybe that day eight years ago she first walked into a gymnasium and set the Olympics as her goal. "I guess it's just because I'm an athlete — that's why I want to go to the Olympics," she says. "If it doesn't happen — it doesn't. But I'm going to work hard, and I'm going to believe that I can make the team. I've been in gymnastics eight years," she says; "and this is the year. I don't want to stick it out another four."

Diane's Olympic year begins next Saturday in Johannesburg, South Africa. She will be the United States' lone competitor in the San Lam Cup, featuring gymnasts from West Germany, Japan, Taiwan and Sweden, as well as the host South Africans. Diane and her coach, Jim Gault, jetted out of the Bay Area yesterday to begin a week of pre-meet training.

The Cup is the first of a dozen competitions for the 17-year old from Pleasanton prior to the Olympic trials in May.

It is an arduous schedule, made more difficult by a practice routine that stretches out six hours per day, six days per week. Until the Olympics conclude in July, Diane will see little of her family or school friends. Study will be accomplished in her few spare moments. Social life will be limited. Diet will be restricted to fruit and vegetables, with an occasional morsel of meat to remind Diane that humans are basically carnivorous.

She's been through the regimen before, however, and survived it.

The problem in an Olympic year is emotional stress. Diane began feeling it last autumn and won't find relief until the trials conclude and the American team is finalized.

There is the problem of administrative power play and politics, a spectre that has haunted her career. It is manifested in gymnastics more than any other sport. It has cost Diane a tour of Russia, and a couple of medals at the Pan Am Games. It has caused scores to be arbitrarily altered before her eyes, and sparked crowds to vicious reaction. "A lot of people don't realize the politics involved in gymnastics," she says. "But it's stuff like that you've got to leave behind, even though you'll find it again in the next meet."

Diane has come to accept the power brokers who control her sport. They no longer weigh on her mind. The pressure of Olympic qualifying, however, can't be escaped.

Diane will live with it through May.

"When I came back from the Pan Am Games, I was uptight," Diane says. "Then I sat down one day and figured it out. I was worrying about the Olympics, about the people who have helped me and how I wouldn't want to let them down. I was always in a bad mood. Finally I talked it over with my coach, and he just said try not to worry. Well, I still have the feeling, but I can cope with it if I fail. It won't be like my whole career is a waste."

"I've made a lot of friends, seen a lot of places, and done pretty well. Nothing can change all of that."

Back pains that nagged her through the Pan Am Games have subsided somewhat, Diane says, and shouldn't be a factor in her Olympic quest. She has restructured her routines to limit any hyper-extension of the back.

Right now her training schedule is a pyramid, with the apex to be reached at the Olympic trials in Los Angeles. It is still early in the season, and her practices are not flawless. She wobbles a little too often on the balance beam, and looks awkward at times on dismounts.

It will all smooth out, however, with the long hours and weeks ahead.

Her concern is maintaining a proper mental outlook during dreary practices, and tasteless meals comprised of shredded lettuce.

"Sometimes in workouts I'll ask myself why I'm doing all of this," Diane says; "and a lot of times I can't answer. But if I quit now, it would be like throwing away half my life."

Barry sparks Warriors

OAKLAND (AP) — Rick Barry's jump shot with five seconds remaining sent the game into overtime Saturday, and the Golden State Warriors pulled out a 90-88 National Basketball Association victory over the Milwaukee Bucks.

Golden State rookie Gus Williams prevented a possible second overtime period when he blocked a layup attempt by Gary Brokaw with two seconds left to play.

The Warriors made three steals early in the overtime, including one by Williams which resulted in a basket by Phil Smith in the opening minute.

The score was 84-84 after four quarters and the Warriors went ahead 90-84 before the Bucks got off a shot.

Jamaal Wilkes of the Warriors led all scorers with 25 points, and Jim Price was tops for Milwaukee with 16.

Pokes hold off Cal

Tuning up for next week's showdown with Amador, the Livermore Cowboys held off a scrappy California High squad to take a 67-57 victory in EBAL basketball action Friday night in the winners' gym.

"We'll be ready for Amador," coach John Jones promised after the victory. "They only beat us by two points last time so we have a good chance."

The Cowboys' matchup against Amador was not foremost in Jones' mind Friday night, though, as the Pokes' first had to get by a talented California team.

The Grizzlies broke fast in the first quarter, taking a 4-0 lead on Craig Cline's layup and Larry Walters' jumper just 30 seconds into the contest. However, the Pokes, utilizing a brilliant full court press, came back quickly to take a 10-4 lead, which stood up for the rest of the game.

The Cowboy press forced Grizzly coach Bill Herrera to change his game plan early in the first quarter. "We had to switch from man-to-man defense to a zone to try and stop their scoring," explained Herrera after the game. "They were just pressing us too hard, and we couldn't use an effective offense."

At times the Cowboys were near-brilliant in their offensive execution in the first half. Byron Steward, Cal's 6-5 center, pulled down five offensive rebounds in the first half to give the Grizzlies second and third chances to score.

In the third quarter, the Pokes increased their lead to 52-41 on the strength of Curt Groth's rebounding and inside scoring. Groth scored 22 points on the 20-point lead at 67-47, culminated by Tom Compton's jumper with 2:50 left in the contest. Jones sent the substitutes in for the rest of the contest, as the Grizzlies scored 10 unanswered points, six of those coming from Dan Nelson.

"They didn't do anything we didn't expect them to do," Jones said of the Grizzlies afterwards. As usual, Jones was full of praise for his opponents, claiming "They are a good team with a couple of good players."

Herrera, though, remained unimpressed. "You're never satisfied when you lose," he stated. On looking ahead to the second round, Herrera was optimistic. "We expect to win more games the second time around," he said. "We'll have five home games."

Friday night's win improved the Pokes' record to 6-1 in EBAL play and 12-3 overall. The Grizzlies, on the other hand, lost their fifth league game in seven outings.

Wujek standout as Mats win

As Joey Wujek goes so goes the Granada High School basketball team. That has generally been the pattern this season and Friday night's game with Dublin at the Gael gym was no exception.

Wujek poured in 25 points with a variety of shots to lead the Matadors to a 67-44 victory over the stubborn Gaels.

The win gives the Matadors a 5-2 EBAL record and Dublin dropped to 2-5.

Both of Granada's defeats came when Wujek was hampered by an injury. With the 6-5 junior healthy now the Matadors are still in the thick of the EBAL title race.

The Matadors broke the game open early in the third period when they outscored the Gaels 8-2 to take a 36-23 lead with 4:57 left in the quarter. Wujek and senior guard Mike Fracisco each hit clutch buckets for the Matadors in the scoring string.

The Matadors also dominated the boards, sweeping off 50 rebounds over the shorter Gaels.

The Matadors turned the game into a complete rout in the fourth quarter, tanking 18 points while holding the Gaels to 14. Wujek scored 13 of his points in the second half.

The game started out as if the Matadors were intent on driving themselves out of the EBAL race. Dublin grabbed a 13-8 lead late in the first quarter but the Matadors rallied to take a 23-19 lead with 2:25 left in the first half. They increased their lead to 28-21 at the half and from then on Wujek and his teammates dominated the show.

Besides Wujek's hot shooting Granada also received some fine scoring from Fracisco with 15 points and 6-7 center Lee Brennan with nine markers. Ace guard Kory Porter led the Gaels with 12 points but no other Dublin player scored in double figures.

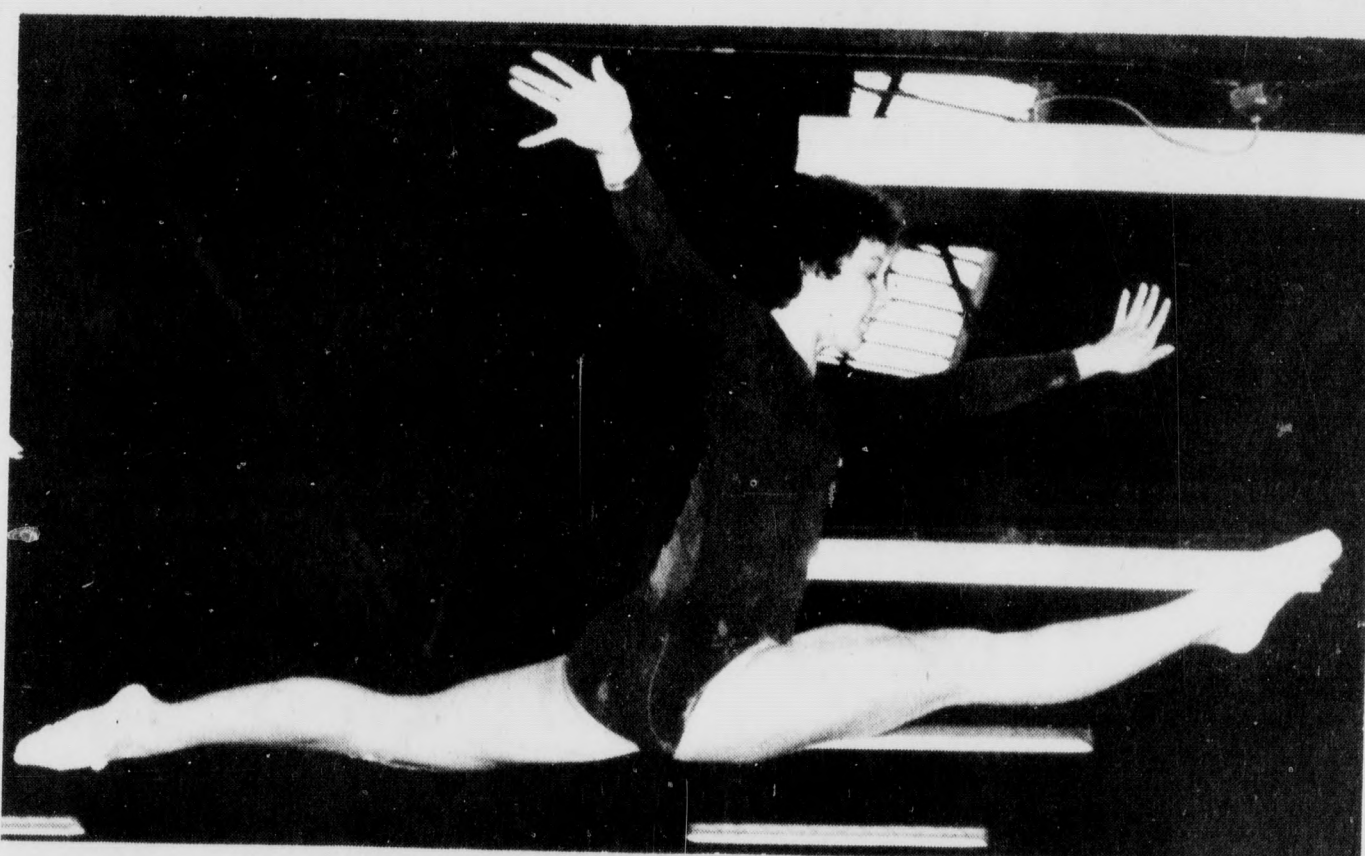

After the game, Matador coach Pat Fracisco, tired but relieved, said his team was playing better.

"We're coming along," he admitted. "We defended them well and we are gradually getting better."

A healthy Joey Wujek is responsible for much of that improvement.

MV booters blast Wolves

January was a very good month for Monte Vista High School. The Mustangs managed to gain three athletic wins over arch-rival San Ramon during this span, the latest one coming yesterday when Monte Vista's soccer team took a 3-0 victory over the Wolves.

The Mustangs scored three times in the second half to capture the victory and gain a 5-6-2 record with one match to go in the EBAL season.

Mustang coach Alex La Beaux remarked, "Whenever we play San Ramon, all the past games are tossed out. But, this time they were improved."

Monte Vista, which was called for offside on fast breaks, prompted La Beaux to add, "Our halfbacks couldn't feed our forwards."

Monte Vista immediately began blitzing the Wolves in the second half and the results were apparent.

"It took us a while to figure out what they were doing," La Beaux said. "And from that point it was just a matter of time."

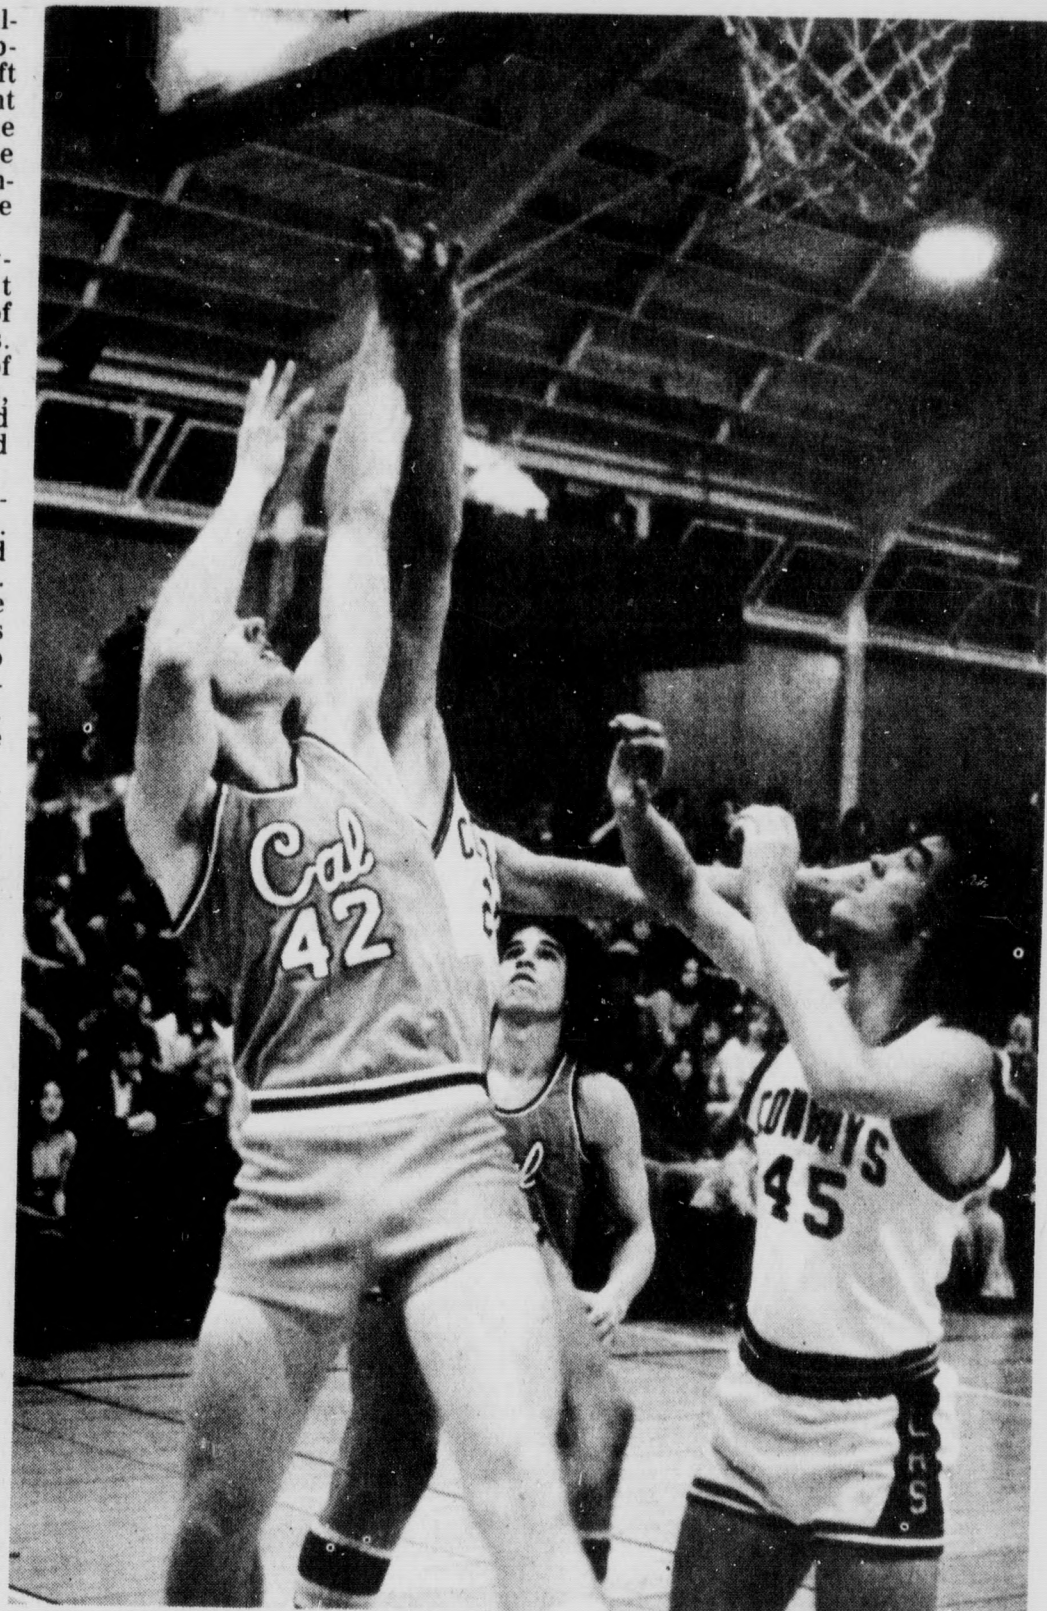

Fifteen minutes into the second half, Eric Bruce dribbled 35 yards down the right flat — subsequently red dogging the Wolves. Bruce then starred in a 20-yarder past the diving Mike Sheldon, only a freshman.

Five minutes later, San Ramon back Bill Heferman tried feeding to Sheldon, but Leonard Lavizzo broke the play up before Jeff Sheikh settled it with a five-yard tally.

Bob Turi scored the final goal seconds later, slapping the sphere off the top upright — the ball dropping inside the nets.

Monte Vista outshot San Ramon, 14-13. The Wolves, meanwhile, led in cornerkicks, 7-1. Sheldon had six saves, John Finley, 10.

Mustangs stun SR

The Monte Vista Mustangs accomplished what they set out to do and disrupted San Ramon High School's plans to earn a convincing 76-53 East Bay Athletic League basketball win Friday night in Danville.

An overflow crowd of perhaps 1200 watched MV overcome the Wolves press to take home the trophy that goes with a win in the cross-town rivalry. "We had to stop their fast break," said Monte Vista coach Gary Yates afterward, "And, of course, we had to stop Jim Hogeboom."

The Mustangs were successful on both counts, limiting San Ramon to a pair of run-and-gun hoops and holding Hogeboom, the EBAL's third leading scorer, to 13 points. Yates credited senior Lance Blanshel, a frequent volunteer for difficult defensive assignments, for the stifling of Hogeboom.

For the second time this week, San Ramon was in a hole very early. Mustang guard Bill Fowler, who has seemingly completed an adjustment from football, scored a quick four points and Ron Low, who finished with a game-high 20, added another bucket to make it 6-0 with just over a minute gone.

The Wolves never quite made it back, though a five-points-in-19-seconds explosion by Hogeboom brought them to within two, 17-15.

A subsequent three-point play by Bob DeVincenzi, now fully recovered from a chipped finger suffered before EBAL play began, erased most doubt as to the outcome but Yates was sufficiently worried by SR's ability to get inside to shift his team from a man-to-man to a 2-1-2 zone, a tactic he has shunned as "boring."

Meanwhile, San Ramon's zone was meeting with mixed results. On one hand, Monte Vista ran well enough to render the Wolf defense almost non-existent as the Lobos, often unable to get back in time to set up.

Spectacular shooting did little to hurt the Mustang cause. MV shot 54 per cent while San Ramon could manage a meager 33 per cent from the floor. The Wolves were also out-rebounded, 36-32, despite grabbing 19 offensive caroms.

Hogeboom led the game with 13 boards and teammate Fritz Venker had five. Blanshel had 10 for Monte Vista while Low added seven and DeVincenzi, six.

Kevin Jones had five assists for MV with DeVincenzi adding three. Brad Blake had four for SR.

Don cagers belt Foothill

Amador High School used its awesome defense to throttle Foothill, 66-26 Friday night at the Falcon gym and remained undefeated in EBAL basketball play with a 7-0 record.

The Don defense shutout the Falcons completely in the first quarter, as Foothill was unable to put a point on the board. Amador, meanwhile, was tanking 18 points for a unstoppable lead.

Amador added 18 more points in the second period and held the Falcons to four to take a 36-4 lead into the lockerroom at halftime. Jim Lackley and guard Mike Hill sparked the first-half Don scoring. Hill pumped in 10 points in the first quarter alone.

Amador let up slightly in the second half as the Dons played their substitutes. Foothill managed 13 points in the third quarter and nine in the last while the Dons picked up 30 markers of their own.

Hill led the well-balanced Amador attack with 16 points on eight field goals. Yackley added 14 and Sam Jorgensen eight. John Rasanti paced the young Falcons with 14 markers on five field goals and four free throws.

Foothill is now 0-7 for the EBAL season.

Amador wins title

For awhile Friday afternoon it seemed Amador High School's soccer team was reluctant to cinch the EBAL championship. The Dons had struggled to a scoreless tie after 25 minutes of play with a last-place Foothill squad and the partisan group of Don fans on the Amador field were getting restless.

However in the last two minutes of the first half Keith Clay and Joe Correia each banged in goals and the Dons went on to record a 5-0 shutout and cinch the EBAL championship.

"It took us a while to get started," admitted Amador's Casey Clark, who had one goal and an assist for the day. "Our passing wasn't good and we had trouble getting it together. However, finally our pride pulled us through. I'm a senior and this is our first championship since I've been here."

When Clark and his teammates did get going there was no stopping them. About two minutes after the second half began, Clark took a pass from Dave Gordon and fired the ball in for the third Don goal. Five minutes later John Kent scored the first of his two goals when he rammed it in from five yards out. His second goal came with 10 minutes left in the contest when Clark kicked the ball between two defenders to Kent who promptly kicked a 15-yarder past the Foothill goalie.

From then on Amador mentor Mike Geib let his entire squad play. The Dons threatened several more times but failed to get any more goals against a determined group of Foothill defenders.

After the game a happy Amador mentor Mike Geib was given the customary 'victory bath' in the school's swimming pool. The players followed after him.

"This is our best defensive team ever," Geib said. "We had seven shutouts on the overall season and five in the EBAL. That's a school record." Correia, the leading scorer for Amador, admitted the victory was not the Dons' best game.

"We played a lot better against Dublin," he said.

Amador outshot the Falcons 19-1 and had seven corner kicks to just one for Foothill.

In other EBAL action Friday Dublin was upset by Granada, 2-0 and Livermore stopped California, 4-2.

Jim Watson and Shannon Estil scored the Granada goals. Both the Matadors and Dublin had 18 shots on goal. Dublin had six corner kicks to four for the Matadors.

Livermore broke a 2-2 halftime tie with California. Barry Scarlet scored two goals for the Cow-boys as they outshot California 25-11.

Granada girls top Dublin

A tough Granada defense combined with Cheryl Wood's career high 25 points gave the Mats the advantage as they snuffed an aggressive Dublin club, 48-37, in EBAL girls basketball action Thursday night.

The win puts Granada at 5-2 in the EBAL race and tied with Amador Valley, as both teams are one game behind league leaders Livermore and Monte Vista.

Dublin started out strong in the first quarter, outscoring the Mats 9-7 in the first period, but Granada, behind Lynn Bousliman's eight points, rattled off six unanswered points to take the lead at the intermission, 27-19.

Wood proved to be the offensive spark for the Mats in the third quarter as she buried three field goals and two free throws, while teammates Grace Autio and Bousliman added two points each to outscore the Gaels, 12-9.

Dublin switched to an aggressive press in the fourth period and Gael center Joanne Callender exploded for six consecutive points from within the key, but Granada converted five free throws and hit a pair of field goals to maintain its scoring edge.

"Cheryl (Wood) has won our last two games for us. She is just learning how to play good basketball," said Granada coach Dave Ramm of his talented sophomore player.

Wood contributed seven field goals and converted 11 of 12 free throws while Bousliman chipped in 12 points and hauled down an equal number of rebounds. Bousliman had a fine night defensively, holding Dublin's talented freshman center Joanne Callender scoreless in the third period and to 17 points for the game, somewhat below her average.

In the junior varsity contest, Dublin breezed past Granada, 38-10. The Gaels' Marge Downing took scoring honors with 12 points.

Freshman center Pat Shirley scored 17 points to lead a hotheaded Livermore club to a 53-30 triumph over a scrappy California team, as Livermore held on to their first place tie with Monte Vista.

The Grizzlies' P.J. Moore put out a fine 20 point performance, scoring 10 of those in the third period as Cal matched the Cowboys at 14-14, but Moore and her cohorts could not manage a rally against a sticky Livermore press in the final period and the Cowboys pumped in 13 points to Cal's four.

Peggy Baker netted 12 points for Livermore, while teammate Lynette White added 10.

Donna Di Grazia paced a victorious Livermore junior varsity club with five points to hand the Grizzlies a 26-10 defeat.

Amador Valley ran its record to 5-2 after trouncing Foothill, 54-26. The Dons raced to a 12-6 lead in the first quarter, and then outscored the Falcons 16-4 in the second period to lead 28-10 at the half. From then on it was clear sailing for the Amador club as they poured it on to score 26 points to Foothill's 16 in the second half.

The Dons' Debbie Oxen led all scorers with 14 points, while Jamie Watson followed with 12 points and Carmen Macon with 10.

Thela Lewis paced the losers with eight points. In a thrilling junior varsity contest, Amador nipped Foothill, 26-22, in a battle to the finish.

PG&E fun book issues kite flyers' warning

With kite-flying time coming fast, children are warned that power lines plus rain can be a deadly combination.

Rain-soaked kite string, like a bare wire, conducts electricity. That means it can deliver a shock from lightning or from contact with electricity from a power line.

Pacific Gas and Electric Co., recognizing the hazard in their above-ground power lines, is offering a Bicentennial comic book "starring" historical figure Benjamin Franklin.

The comic book explains the hazards of flying a kite in a storm and also warns children never to climb a power pole to retrieve a hung-up kite but instead to call PG&E. In addition, the little booklet has instructions for making kites, a maze, secret code and other puzzles.

Copies are available at the local PG&E office at 988 Murrieta Blvd., Livermore.

Pleasanton Lions slate crab feed

PLEASANTON — Merle Ohlhauser, general chairman of the Pleasanton Lions Annual Crab Feed, has announced the club's popular event will be held Saturday, Feb. 7 in the cafeteria at the Alameda County Fairgrounds.

A limited number of tickets are available from Merle Telford, ticket chairman, at 260 Main St. The Lions wish to emphasize this since there will not be as many tickets available as last year.

TV program to offer guide to retirement

Retirement: ready or not? If you're like most people, retirement is something you won't think about until it happens to you, and by then it may be too late.

A new television course to be aired locally has been designed to help people prepare for retirement by showing that retirement can be a satisfying and enjoyable time of life if it is planned for well in advance.

Entitled "Pre - Retirement: Ready or Not," the ten half-hour telecasts will be aired on KGO, channel 7, on Thursdays at 6:30 a.m., and on KQED, channel 9, on Thursdays at 3 p.m., beginning February 12.

The course can be taken at Chabot College, Hayward campus, for junior college credit. Two on-campus sessions are required. Orientation to the course will be given Feb. 21 in Building 600 at 8 a.m.

A final meeting is scheduled for April 17, at 10 a.m.

The television course is designed for anyone interested in retirement. It shows viewers how to plan a personal retirement program, including financial, employment, and leisure time budgeting.

Producers of the series note that most people don't want to think about aging, and postpone planning for retirement.

But they warn 10 years prior to retirement is not too soon to begin planning.

"Action Warranty" is provided FREE.
Now for the first time a nationwide real estate organization provides its customers with an Action Warranty that guarantees in writing the service it has designed to sell homes FAST. CENTURY 21 brokers know from experience, gained while selling thousands upon thousands of homes each year across this nation, that when a home owner decides to sell his home, he wants to sell it FAST and at the right price. CENTURY 21 brokers know how to get that action - FAST!

"Action Warranty" guarantees what we will do for you.
It's a bold step, putting it in writing. But we felt that customers deserved it. And we felt that we could live up to it. After all, there is no reason why anyone, when dealing with an independently owned CENTURY 21 office, should have to experience any anxieties about being forgotten, neglected, or overlooked once they have signed up to sell their home. So we put it in writing. Don't settle for less. Call the CENTURY 21 office near you for your free copy of our Action Warranty.

Adventist

LIVERMORE — "Strategy for Stress Control" is the title of the lecture series to be conducted at the Vinwood Lodge, 35 Fenton St., starting on Sunday, Feb. 1 and continuing on Tues., Wed., and Thurs Feb. 3, 4 and 5, at 7:30 each evening.

This series is part of the Seventh-day Adventist Community Services program and is being offered at no charge to the public. Charles Edwards, Secretary of the Home, Health, Education Dept., will be the moderator. In these times of stress and strain in all walks of life, this feature will be of interest to every family member. For further information, Pastor Robert Becker may be called at 447-6959.

On Sat., for the 11 a.m. program, Robert Williams of Pleasant Hill, will continue his message on "Stewardship of Life," which he started last week. Also at 4:30 p.m., at the Adventist Church, Williams will give his final discussion on "Finance Management," which is also open to the public and should be of interest to every family.

In addition to the Community Service Program the Adventist denomination sponsors a World Service Organization. They recently sent 50 bales of clothing to Beirut, Lebanon, to aid the victims of the recent civil disturbances. $20,000 in cash has also been sent to be distributed to individuals and families by Adventist Lebanese nationals. Officials at the Washington, D.C. headquarters stressed that no position has been taken regarding Christian and Moslem factions within the country, and the aid will be distributed solely according to need.
